Have A Blessed New Year!

Dear Parishioners,

This Sunday is the feast of the Holy Family. Families are something of a mystery aren't they? You cannot choose your blood family. It's a given. Our parents choose to have children but they did not know in advance who that child might be like. We certainly do not choose our parents. That too is a given.

Last week I received a call from a first cousin once removed (The Irish have these relationships nuanced into an art form!) For the uninitiated, a first cousin once removed is the child of a first cousin. My cousin was informing me that her father had died in Colorado. He was married to my oldest first cousin. Both were raised in Forest Hills and are in their early nineties. It hit me rather suddenly that when my cousin herself dies, there is very little chance that I will ever see any of her children, grandchildren or great-grandchildren again.

Not so long ago, family members remained living close to one another. Families got together regularly and cousins all knew each other well. That has changed in very short time. I have only one cousin who remains in New York City! She is a single lady. My brother and his family and all of my cousins live outside the City in which they were raised. Many of them live a long distance away. It's the new American culture. The United States Census Bureau estimates that seven million Americans live in a place other than where they lived last year. Most of us no longer live in the midst of families into which we were born but rather among families that we have made!

Today's feast may lose some of its impact in this modern context; however, the Holy Family is also moving. It is not a convenient move. St. Luke tells us that the little family of Mary, Joseph and Jesus have had to move temporarily from their hometown, Nazareth, seventy miles south to Bethlehem because among his remote ancestors, Joseph can count King David. All David's many descendants had to return to his hometown of Bethlehem to be registered by the occupying Romans for a census. Consequently the Child is born not in Nazareth but in Bethlehem.

The Jewish law then required that each male child be redeemed. This ceremony may have had roots in a time long before Jesus, when child sacrifice was common. Rather than practice such a heinous custom, the ancient Hebrews substituted a ceremony of redemption and consecration of the newborn child. The sacrifice of poor people was a two turtle doves or pigeons. The temple was in Jerusalem and that required another journey of seven miles on foot. A surprise was to follow. After making the required sacrifice, Mary and Joseph encounter Simeon. He has good and bad news, the type of news that always seems to happen when people move from place to place. Simeon is an elderly man and to him, it has been revealed that he will not see death until the Messiah arrives. The moment he sees Jesus, Simeon knows that his desire has been realized. His response is the prayer: the Nunc Dimittis - "Now dismiss your servant, O Lord... for my eyes have seen your salvation... a light of revelation to the Gentiles (non-Jews) and the glory of your people, Israel". That sounds wonderful!

Now the bad news, as an adult, the Child will not always be accepted. He will be a sign that is contradicted. Typically Mary will share the sufferings of Her Son in the way that all mothers or fathers suffer when their children are suffering. Another insightful elderly person, Anna, appears and she thanks God because this is the Child, Who has come to those awaiting the redemption of Jerusalem. Probably completely perplexed, Mary and Joseph take the Newborn home to Nazareth where He was raised.

If you moved from an old neighborhood, which was always home when you were growing up, then you know that good things and bad things can come your way. There are new "good neighbors" and new "bad neighbors" but also new opportunities for schools or shopping or Church, even as you miss your old church and neighborhood. So what can we learn from this feast of the Holy Family?

The first reading from the Old Testament Book of Sirach gives a hint: Do not abandon the important relationships, even if they are now long-distant relationships. This is especially true for parents, who gave us life and to whom honor and kindness are due. In the second reading Paul advises his Colossian Church to treat others, whether in the new relationship of the Church family or otherwise, with compassion, kindness, humility, gentleness and patience. This keeps old friends and helps to make new ones.

In the Gospel, we find Mary and Joseph observing the teachings of their Jewish faith. Anna prayed constantly - she kept the conversation with God ongoing. Simeon's "Nunc Dimittis" Prayer indicates that God is active among all people and therefore we should build new relationships with those who are new to us or different from those we have known in the past.

Whether from a large or small blood family we are all members of a very large diverse family. The great symbol of family relations in all cultures is to gather around a common table to eat. When we gather at the Eucharistic table we share Food with a family called into existence by God's love - His family which is modeled on the loving kindness of the family at Nazareth.

In Christ,
Monsignor McGuirl

POOR BOX

We continue to receive requests for assistance so we ask you to please remember the poor and make a donation to the Poor Boxes at the entries of the Church. Your continued generosity is greatly appreciated.

THANK YOU!

Your support of our Christmas Giving Tree and Be An Angel programs has, once again, made it possible for all of us to brighten the lives of many this Christmas Season.

The gifts collected have been given to Catholic Charities, and to Bridge To Life for distribution, and of course to many of our own parishioners who are presently homebound.

There will also be happy faces in several families that have been “adopted” by some of our parishioners. These families will have gifts to open on Christmas thanks to the people who adopted them.

God Bless all of you for your generosity!

OLM CONSOLATION MINISTRY NEEDS HELP

At present, there are not many active members in our consolation Ministry. The “precious few” that we have, work tirelessly to make sure that no parishioner finds it necessary to deal with the loss of a loved one alone. By helping families through the difficult process of handling final arrangements for services, the Consolation Minister actually makes an unpleasant experience a bit easier to bear. Please consider joining those who are already performing this valuable ministry. Call or stop by the Rectory if you are interested in helping, or if you would like to know more about this ministry.

RCIA INVITATION
